9. [] LIAISON I called Jim Conrow, in the office of Representative C. W. Bill Young (R., Fla.), and advised that we had no further unclassified information on the US-USSR Military Resources Company, Inc., of Seattle. I suggested that he call the State Department and/or the Department of Commerce since they would probably be well acquainted with the rationale point for the establishment of the Company and its functions (Conrow had noted that it services Soviet trawlers off the West Coast of the U.S.). I alerted Millie Groobey, of the Office of the Assistant Secretary for Congressional Relations, at the Department of State, and Linda Adkins, of the office of the Counsellor for Congressional Affairs, at the Department of Commerce, that Conrow might call their Departments. They were grateful for the advice.

10. [] LIAISON Through the kindness of OGCR and NFAC/CSS, we sent an updated study on the Law of the Sea by courier to the offices of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, in the Dirksen Senate Office Building, for Bob Turner, of the staff of Senator Robert Griffin (R., Mich.). Turner later read the study there. At the end of the day Dave Evans, of the staff of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, called to say Turner had taken some maps from the study that carried no indication of classification; Was this all right? [] NFAC/CSS, confirmed that the maps indeed were unclassified and there was no problem in having Turner take them. Evans had also agreed to have the publication taken to the Committee's main office at the Capitol for return to us via courier.

11. [] LIAISON The acting Chief of the [] called to relay a request from the Deputy Director of the State Department's Southern European Affairs Bureau, Ray Ewing, for him and his Bureau's Chief, Nelson Ledsky, to read the transcript of the Director's testimony of 12 October on Greece and Turkey before the House International Relations Subcommittee on Europe and the Middle East. Ewing said he had been in Ankara at the time that the transcript was made available to the American Ambassador. [] OLC, and [] NFAC/CSS, saw no particular problem with this []
